

How often should I clean Kitchen Cabinets by The Hacienda Collection, LLC.

So we know they need to be cleaned, but how often should we be wiping down the interior and exteriors of our kitchen cabinets?

The cleaning schedule that will be best for your kitchen cabinets depends a lot on how often you cook in your home. If you cook daily, a daily wipe down will go a long way towards maintaining the look of your cabinets. If you only cook once or twice a week, then once or twice a week will be enough.

Build-up on our kitchen cabinets comes from a combination of dust and grease from cooking. Add a little heat and you can have a sticky coating. A daily wipe down prevents a lot of this build-up.

Every few months the interior of your kitchen cabinets should be cleaned. Crumbs can build-up quickly and attract pests. A quarterly cleaning helps keep your interiors clean and free of insects.
